Term	Definition
GDPR	General Data Protection Regulation is the most comprehensive data privacy law ever passed. It was designed to strengthen and unify data protection for all individuals within the European Union. Anyone involved in processing personal data about individuals in the EU must apply whether or not they're located in the EU, the U.S., or anywhere else in the world.
data protection officer	An individual who has independent authority to oversee a company's compliance with GDPR.
data protection impact assessment (DPIA)	A privacy review process of products or features to ensure GDPR compliance before they go live. Helps document key decisions within an organization that have a privacy impact.
data subject rights (DSRs)	Rights designed to give individuals greater control over their data. This includes the right to be forgotten, access, portability, restriction of processing, rectify, and object.
